OUTLINES

A Paris dispatch says that U. S. Minister Woodford in an interview with Duke Tetuan, Spanish Minister of Foreign Affairs, at Madrid, said that if the war in Cuba was not terminated by the end of October the United States would feel justified in taking measures to secure the independence of Cuba; at the State Department in Washington, however, it is said that Mr. Woodford did not deliver himself of an ultimatum, but simply stated the deep interest taken in a settlement of the Cuban trouble as a reason for intervening in any measure at this time. —— Two propositions have been made to the North Carolina authorities to take the penitentiary convicts and pay all expenses of conducting the prison. —— The British ship Favonius, with lumber from Pensacola to Rio Janeiro, burned at sea; crew saved. —— The Mobile & Ohio Railroad employes, with their families, about 1,000 persons, have removed from Mobile to St. Louis to remain until frost. —— Jno. F. Dobson has been appointed postmaster at Goldsboro, N. C. —— Two cases of yellow fever in a mild form in the Marine Hospital, Cairo, Ill., are improving. —— The closing direct evidence of the prosecution in the Luetgert trial will be submitted to day. —— Three prisoners escaped from jail at Christiansburg, Va., Saturday night. —— Frank Short, a prominent citizen of Abingdon, Va., killed in a runaway accident. —— Peace between Turkey and Greece has been signed. —— After two months shut-down the Bellaire, Ohio, steel works started up. —— Eighteen new cases of yellow fever in New Orleans; no deaths; four of the cases are in a fashionable boarding house; all of the other boarders left, some for Atlanta. —— A seven year-old white boy died of hydrophobia in Griffin, Ga.; he was bitten by a mad dog in May last. —— Only two new cases of yellow fever yesterday at Mobile; no deaths. Saturday there were eleven new cases and Sunday as many more. —— The coal strike in the Hazleton, Pa., section is thought to have ended; over half the strikers have returned to work. —— Another pigeon dispatch received from Prof. Andree, the Arctic explorer. —— Fire broke out in a coal mine in which 100 men were at work in Bibb county, Alabama; all were rescued but five, who could not be reached. —— New York markets: Money on call was firm at 2@3½ per cent.; last loan at 3 and closed offered at 3@3½ per cent; cotton easy—middling 6⅞c; flour was steady; wheat—spot firm; No. 2 red 99½@$1 afloat; corn—spot firm; No. 2 35⅜c; rosin steady—strained common to good $1.45@1.50; spirits turpentine steady at 30½@31c.

Dudley set the "blocks of five" pace in Indiana and now they have got to lynching 'em that way.

A San Francisco man who positively asserts that he spent three days in hell, says he didn't see much difference in the climate when he got back.

Judging from the number of Andree pigeons that have been reported seen at various places Andree must have taken an incubator up with him.

American colleges received donations in 1893 amounting in the aggregate to $29,000,000, in 1894 $32,000,000, in 1895 $32,80 0,000 and last year $27,000,000.

The Philadelphia Press, Rep., which seems to have been keeping pretty close tab on Grover Cleveland, has discovered that he wants to go to the Senate from New Jersey.

Weyler should send over to Pennsylvania and hire some of those sheriff's deputies who distinguished themselves at Hazleton. They are better shooters than the Spaniards.

St. Louis is in a fair way of achieving fame. Her latest hero is a citizen who drank thirty-two bottles of beer at a sitting. He did it sitting because he probably couldn't stand so much.

That Indiana man who went to Kansas and bought forty acres of land and raised corn enough this year to pay for the land five times, was in luck. If he had been there last year his corn crop might not have amounted to shucks.

Remarking at the surprise expressed that a "journeyman tanner" like the President of France should play "an all but regal part so well," the Chicago News says "Gen. Grant, who was a tanner, and not a first-class one either," was successful in playing a very distinguished role. But it so happens that Grant was not a tanner, first-class or any other class.

The Louisville Courier-Journal, which has been figuring on it, calculates that in the past thirty years money enough has been wasted on so called road improvement in that State to asphalt every highway and lane in it, a calculation which would fit the case of a good many other States.

Judge Cox, of Washington, has decided that the President can remove an office holder regardless of the civil service laws, without assigning cause of removal; because the power to appoint implies the power to remove. A Chicago judge has since then rendered a similar opinion.

Senator Tillman, of South Carolina, says he always asks his wife's opinion when about to do anything, and never failed to be governed by it but once, and then he was sorry for it. He does not say whether she went for him with a pitchfork, as his cousin's wife did recently, wherefore his cousin is pleading for a divorce.

A citizen of one of the moonshine counties of Kentucky whose business it is to see that the moonshine business doesn't overdo itself, has equipped himself with a bullet-proof steel shirt and now feels arrayed to take part in the nocturnal festivities.

A Florida man proposes to add to the attractions of that State as a sojourning ground by furnishing the hotels with pineapple syrup, which they say knocks the spots off maple syrup. An acre of pineapples will yield 1,200 gallons of syrup.

The New Orleans States says Abbeville has quarantined everything from New Orleans except whiskey. Perhaps Abbeville thinks there is no danger of fever germs surviving a bath of New Orleans whiskey.

With the big wheat crop, the salmon crop in the upper Pacific streams was also large, so large that such salmon as sold last year for a quarter, were sold this year for three cents.

With a consumption of 1,042,671 bales of cotton last year against 546,894 bales in 1889-90, it looks as if Southern mills were getting there.

Hearing in the Case of the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company Again Postponed.

Mr. W. H. Shaw, clerk of the Circuit Court of the United States, was notified yesterday by Judge Charles H. Simonton that the hearing in the case of the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company vs. the Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley Railroad set to come up in Asheville on September 23nd had on account of the illness of counsel been deferred. They will come up in connection with the hearing of the appeal in the main cause before the Circuit Court of Appeals in Richmond. The petition which was to be heard in Asheville this week was that of Jno. W. Fries, Receiver of the North State Improvement Company, to be allowed to sell the rolling stock of the road. The appeal in the main cause is one entered by the New York stockholders from the decision of Judge Simonton that the road be sold as a whole.

Two Negroes in a Fight.

Ed. Hawes and John Chesnutt, two colored men, while drinking, got into a fight Saturday night in a disreputable house on Thirteenth and Queen streets. Hawes came out of it, or was taken out, with one of his jawbones broken into two or three, with his forehead badly lacerated and his eyes quite badly bunged up. A chair was the weapon with which his assailant wrought such general execution.

Dr. T. R. Mask, colored, treated the wounds Sunday and found them to be as described above. He reported that Hawes was almost crazed with pain. Being an employe on one of the boats, he was taken to the Marine Hospital.

FIGHT ON SHIPBOARD.

The Mate of the Schooner William M. Bird Assaulted and Seriously Wounded by One of the Crew.

The schooner William M. Bird, which came up from quarantine yesterday afternoon had on board a very badly wounded man. His name is Frank P. Miller, aged 25 years, of Indiana, and the second mate of the vessel. The wounds were inflicted Saturday last about 12 o'clock noon while the Bird was lying at the quarantine station.

The story of the cutting is the recital of how a vicious West Indies negro, armed with murderous weapons, sought in a fit of anger to kill an unarmed white man. The crew were busy scraping masts and the colored man, whose name is A. L. Clark, had just come down from a mast which he had been at work upon. The mate had been managing the ropes of the triangle-board on which the negro sat. Clark sought to pick a quarrel, saying to the mate, with an oath, that he hadn't slackened the triangle-board as he should have done. The mate saw that the negro meant mischief and said, "Go away; I don't want anything to do with you."

As he said this, Clark picked up a marlin-spike and seizing the mate's right hand with his left, drew back to strike. As he did so, the mate struck him in the face with his free hand. Some of the scraping knives, which are about the size and shape of ordinary butcher-knives, were lying close by, and the infuriated negro made for one of these and renewed the conflict, making lunge after lunge. Mate Miller kept stepping backward to get out of the way of his murderous assailant, until he stumbled into a coil of halyards, when the negro had gotten close enough to use his weapon. The first stroke made a cut in Miller's left arm just below the elbow two or three inches long. The next pass came near resulting fatally, making a wound four inches long about three inches below the heart, and through which the entrails all but protruded.

The greater part of the crew were negroes who showed little disposition to go to the white man's rescue, but about this time the Captain arrived on the scene and ordered the negro to go below. Dr. J. M. Eager, physician in charge of the quarantine station, was called on board and he dressed the wounds of the injured man. The negro was put in irons and kept in strict custody until the schooner, after having been discharged from quarantine, arrived in port yesterday at 5 o'clock, when he was taken to jail on a warrant issued by United States Commissioner R. H. Bunting.

Mate Miller was carried to the Marine Hospital for treatment.

COTTON FACTS AND FIGURES.

— The price of cotton went off a quarter of a cent yesterday, the market closing firm at 6¼ cents for middling, against 6¼ cents Saturday and 7⅛ cents on the same day last year.

— Receipts still hold up, and the cotton men say that it has never before come in in such volume. Receipts yesterday 3,791 bales; same day last year 3,006.

— There are four cotton steamers in port now; three, the Atlantic, the Roxby and the Sahara, to Alex. Sprunt & Son, and one to Capt. J. H. Sloan. The Jeanara, now at the quarantine station, makes five steamers in all.

— The British steamer Sahara, Captain Cave, which came up yesterday, is the largest cotton steamer that ever came to this port, registering 3,665 tons and measuring 380 feet in length.

— According to the instructions of the Quotation Committee, cotton will hereafter be quoted only once a day, at 4 p. m., beginning with yesterday. The quotations have previously been posted at 12 and changes made at 4 when necessary. The hour was made 4 p. m. exclusively because that is the very best time for getting the exact tone of the market. The business is practically all done in the afternoon, there being little cotton offered until the New York market is heard from.

Burglars in Mr. Greenewald's House.

Mr. I. L. Greenewald's residence, 11 North Seventh street, was entered Saturday night by burglars. The house has been vacant since some time last month, when Mr. Greenewald and family moved to the Sound, and the burglary was not discovered until Sunday, when Mr. Greenewald came up to the city and found that burglars had been putting in their work.

Entrance was gained by prying open a shutter to the parlor window. Then the thief made his way to Mr. Greenewald's room, entered the wardrobe, by the use of a skeleton key probably, and removed from the furthest corner of the top shelf the sum of $7.18 left there by one of the children. A small bank on the floor of the wardrobe was not touched. Neither was anything else in the room; so that there was good reason for believing that the guilty party was quite familiar with the premises.

THE BENEVOLENT SOCIETY.

The Benevolent Society takes this method of thanking the "New Women" and the "Old Maids" for the proceeds of the game of ball played at Hilton Park last Friday afternoon.

The amount realized is $16.85, which together with the amount from the previous game, gives us the nice sum of $30.85, which helps us greatly with our expenses during the Summer months.

We particularly wish to thank Mr. Jas. Sinclair and Mr. J. H. Hinton for their efforts in getting up the games, and Mr. W. F. Robinson for interest shown.

We wish also to show our grateful appreciation of favors done us by Messrs. Percy Cowan & Co., who sent a hearse and carriage to the funeral of one of the inmates of the Home, and to Mr. R. C. Orrell and Mr. Hardy Fennell for carriages, by thanking them publicly for their kindness on that occasion.

The Society feel a weight of obligation to all who show an interest in the Home by helping us either with their gifts or their influence.

New York and Baltimore put forth their best pitchers yesterday, Big Amos and Brother Joe, both of whom were hit hard, but the former had a shade best of the bargain as the Orioles were unable to see the ball, when the bases were covered. The winning run was scored on Rusie's hit which brought home Gleason. The game was called in the eighth inning on account of darkness.

Taylor led the Phillies to victory yesterday. McJames pitched good ball, but gave too many passes—eight in all. The Senators had a total of fourteen men who died on bases.

Storm Warning.

The following was received at the Wilmington office yesterday at 3.00 p. m. from the Chief of the Weather Bureau, Washington, D. C.:

"Hoist information signal. There is a depression central in the East Gulf which may cause high northeast winds off the Florida and South Atlantic coasts by Tuesday morning; conditions are threatening for the South Atlantic and Florida coasts."

SEPT. 20, 8 P. M.—The East Gulf storm area has increased decidedly in energy during the day, and the heavy rainfall of 2.16 inches, with wind velocity of 26 miles, is reported from Tampa, Fla., to-night. The storm apparently is moving across the peninsula northeast towards the Southeast Atlantic coast. Its movement is being retarded to an extent by the high barometer area now central over the Ohio valley and covering the interior of the country, causing fair, cooler weather to prevail generally under it. Temperatures are rising over the extreme West, with the barometer falling. Conditions indicate northeast winds, increasing to storm force, along the Southeast Atlantic Tuesday.

At 10 50 northeast signals were ordered up. The storm was then in the east Gulf, near the central Florida coast, moving northeast; dangerous for vessels leaving for the South.

DAUGHTERS OF THE CONFEDERACY.

The State Convention to Meet in Wilmington Next Month.

A called meeting of the Daughters of the Confederacy was held yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. Gabriel Holmes. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Parsley, Mrs. Holmes, the vice president, presided, with Miss Mary Sanders secretary. The meeting was called to make arrangements for the State convention of the Daughters of the Confederacy, which convenes in the armory of the Wilmington Light Infantry, this city, on the 18th of next month, and, of course, matters pertaining to this and the entertainment of delegates to the convention.

On motion, Mrs. Gabriel Holmes and Miss Kate Cantwell were appointed as delegates to represent the chapter of this city, and the meeting then adjourned.

There are five chapters in the State and the delegation to the convention will consist of ten daughters, two from each chapter.

At the Opera House.

To see Bancroft in his legerdemain is to witness and to wonder. His delusive arts and deceptive countenance during his performance serve to beguil even the imaginations of the most wary. Seemingly he transcends the human and apparently invades the domain of the supernatural. His audiences look and are astonished at each and every "trick" which he presents and are simply nonplussed.

Mr. Bancroft is at the head of his profession, and the laurels which have entwined around him justly belong to this great magician. His "Palace of Enchantment," with its gorgeous scenery; "The Miracles of Chunder Huia," and the startling illusion in which a living woman is transformed into a wild roaring lion, are simply marvelous.

He appeared last night to a very large audience, and the writer knows he voices the sentiment of the audience when he says, he is great.

Second Regiment Band Photographed.

A STAR representative was shown yesterday the proof of a photograph taken last week by Mr. H. Cronenberg of the Second Regiment Band. The picture is a large one and portrays the members of the band in full dress uniform. A separate picture, cabinet size, was also taken by Mr. Cronenberg of President Jas. W. Monroe and Mr. Geo. P. Howey, both charter members of the band. The picture was taken on the eve of Mr. Howey's departure for Fernandina, Fla., on account of the life-long intimacy which has existed between him and President Monroe.

—Over a score of trivial cases were disposed of in the Police Court yesterday.

THE COTTON CROP.

A Large Georgia Planter Says That Estimates Are Too Large.

Colonel George W. Truitt, of Troup county, the champion cotton raiser of Georgia, and the South, estimates that the cotton crop is at least 30 per cent. off, as compared with the estimates made a month ago, says the Atlanta Constitution.

Colonel Truitt was here yesterday and naturally everybody asked him his opinion of cotton and cotton conditions.

"There is no question," said he, "that Mr. Neill is very far off in his estimate of the cotton crop, and he is doing the cotton raisers of the South a grave injustice by his misrepresentation of conditions. Whether this arises from willful desire to mislead, or whether it is due to ignorance of the facts, I don't pretend to say; but the fact is, that he is off at least a million and a half in his estimate. I believe this man Neill made a good guess on the crop some years ago, and I presume he has been banking on that ever since. The fact is, however, that his estimates do grave injustice to the cotton people of the South. Last year he missed the crop by a million and a half bales and this year I feel certain that he will be at least that far off."

"You say the Georgia crop will be 30 per cent. off as compared with estimates made a month ago?"

"Yes, at least that. This is due to rust on the white or gray lands, as we call them. On the red lands, the cotton has not suffered much from rust; but on the gray lands, a great deal of damage has been done, and I believe it a thoroughly conservative estimate to say that the crop is off that much.

"About that fellow Neill," continued Mr. Truitt, in his characteristic way," he has in the past kept shoes off the feet of the Southern children by his so called 'estimates,' which affect the price of cotton at Liverpool, and, therefore, the price all over the world. His estimates are not honest; he is either, as I say, willfully dishonest in the figures that he gives out to the world, or woefully ignorant.

"The world needs a ten million-bale crop of American cotton, because there is no surplus. There will be a big demand for cotton, there is no doubt of that; but the American crop will fall considerably short of those figures."

There is no man in America whose opinion on the cotton crop and cotton conditions is more valuable than is that of Colonel Truitt. He is regarded as the most successful cotton planter in the State, and he speaks from a thorough knowledge that has come through practical experience.

A Live Lion.

Front street, between Princess and Market, yesterday had the appearance of a circus in town. The reason for this undue excitement was on account of Mr. S. A. Schloss having exhibited in the show window of his store, "Wallacker," the live lion that was shown at the Opera House last night in connection with an illusion presented by Bancroft, the magician. The entire day the street in front of the store was crowded with people, and the small boy, who spent the day there, was in high glee.

BY WILLIAM H. BERNARD.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

TUESDAY MORNING, SEPT. 21, 1897

FOR WHOSE BENEFIT?

The advocates of high tariff protection contend that this kind of protection benefits the whole country, benefits the manufacturer by preventing ruinous competition from abroad, benefits the employes of the manufacturer by enabling him to give them more steady employment and higher wages, and benefits the whole country by stimulating the establishment of manufactories which from the competition that would result would ensure low prices for consumers. This is the theory and this is the ground of defence for high tariff protection, but it doesn't pan out so in practice. If it has ever been shown that such protection benefitted any one but the producer of the articles protected it has not been made a matter of unquestionable record.

There is much talk about the return of prosperity, about manufactories which were idle resuming work and others increasing the number of employes and running hours, but it is very rare that we hear of any increase in the pay of the workmen. We do, though, hear of increasing prices of nearly if not every protected article. If there has been any material advance in wages over the wages paid during the existence of the Wilson tariff, the industrial journals and newspaper chroniclers of the events of the day have failed to discover it. But since the Dingley tarifi has become the law there has been a marked increase in the price of nearly all kinds of goods, the reason alleged being the increased cost of the raw materials, some of which came in duty free under the Wilson tariff, while others paid lower duties than they do now.

An increase proportionate to the increase in the cost of the raw materials might have been expected, and reasonable manufacturers should be satisfied with that, but they are not and are not going to be. They feel that the Dingley tariff was passed for their benefit, framed at their dictation, and they are going to take advantage of it and make the most of it. As showing the spirit that moves many if not all of them, the Philadelphia Ledger, a protection paper, quotes (with appropriate comment and criticism) the following from a call for a meeting of the knit goods manufactnrers of the country to consider a revision of prices: "The consumer is naked, stocks depleted and the pockets of the agricultural classes full." And therefore the opportunity to put up prices, to practice extortion and plunder the consumers is excellent. With Winter coming on, the consumers "naked," stocks run down, and the farmers pockets bulging out with wads of money, why shouldn't they prepare to do some robbing and fix up the best plan to do it successfully when they have a protective tariff to rely upon to prevent any competition from abroad or interference with their programme?

The call from which the above quotation was made, was for a meeting in New York on the 15th inst. The meeting was held and was attended by about 300 operators from different mills. After comparing notes, swapping opinions and discussing the situation, these three hundred unanimously adopted the following resolutions:

"Resolved, That according to the relative amount of wool and cotton used, an immediate advance is necessary of from 15 to 40 per cent. to cover the increased cost of knit goods; and we further

"Resolve, That, if it is necessary to carry out the above resolutions, we will curtail production, even to the stoppage of our mills."

The interesting feature of this is that many, at least the largest of these knit goods manufactories, took time by the forelock while the Dingley bill was before Congress to import and to buy at home wool enough to keep them running a long time. There never was before such a lively hustling to buy foreign wool and get it into this country before the new tariff come into operation, and when it did come into operation there was an enormous stock of wool on hand Domestic wool has increased very little in price and yet we find these knit goods makers unanimously resolving to put up prices from 15 to 40 per cent, because consumers of knit goods are "naked, stocks depleted and the pockets of the farmers full," and to force this increase on the market they will if necessary curtail production even to the stoppage of the mills.

It is estimated that there may be 500 knit goods factories in this country, employing perhaps 50,000 people, if not more, people who are dependent upon the work they find in these factories for the bread they eat; but if the gentlemen who run the factories want to force the "naked" consumers to walk up and pay the 15 to 40 per cent. extortion then they will shut up their establishments until the naked come to terms and shell out. In the meantime the poor devils, male and female, old and young, for whose welfare we were assured Mr. Dingley had a paternal eye, may scuffle for themselves and go hungry.

With such a combination as is here unanimously resolved upon what becomes of the competition which the protectionists assured us would ensure low prices? Where does the public benefit by it when the combines can resolve that because consumers are "naked," stocks down and the farmers' pockets full, they will keep the stocks down and shut up shop if necessary until the increase of 15 to 40 per cent. comes. These knit goods people did pretty well under the Wilson tariff, so well that they increased in number considerably. It is true that wool was on the free list then, and they might have bought their supplies cheaper than they can now, but even if they did not lay in supplies in anticipation of wool being put on the dutiable list, there has been no advance in the price of wool to justify this proposed 15 to 40 per cent. extortion.

MINOR MENTION.

For several years electricians, including Edison and Tesla, two of the world's greatest and most successful, have been experimenting with devices to make it practicable for moving railroad trains to keep up continuous telegraphic connection with each other. The most if not all of them have been striving to accomplish it by induction, by throwing the electric current from the train to the telegraph wires running beside the track, making these the agent for the transmission of messages. They had made some progress but not enough to make the induction method practically valuable. But a young electrician in Indianapolis, Ind., seems to have struck on a new idea, which he probably caught from the third rail used on some electric railways, which seems to have something in it and is thus described by the Chicago Tribune:

"In a nutshell, the invention consists of the introduction of a third rail or metal rod laid midway between the regular rails of a track and put in connection with the car by metal brushes that revolve over the third rail and accomplish a complete metallic circuit. There are two brushes, one at either end of the car, and thus if one end of the car is jostled up and the brush is taken from the rail, the other at the other end of the coach will still be in contact and the circuit will continue to exist. These brushes are controlled by a chain and sprocket gear attached to the axles of the car wheels, and their speed is regulated so that it will correspond with the shaft of the moving train. The advantage of such an invention as this to the railroad world cannot be overestimated, as it is claimed it will make wrecks and collisions practically impossible. The operator on the train would get word of the second train that might otherwise run it down, or perhaps strike his train in a head-end collision."

This has the appearance of being practicable, and it is to be hoped that the tests may not disappoint those who put their faith in it.

We have several times referred to the progress that Birmingham, Ala., is making in the steel making industry. If the Government decides to establish an armor-plate plant the chances of Birmingham are as good to secure it as any other point, and perhaps a little better, for the Navy Department seems to have been favorably impressed by the representations made by the committee which recently visited Washington to present the advantages which Birmingham offers for such a plant. They were assured that Birmingham's claims would be investigated and considered before a location was decided upon, if it should be decided to establish a Government plant. But the advantages offered for the manufacture of steel have attracted the attention of foreign steel makers and we learn from the Baltimore Manufacturers' Record that negotiations are now in progress with the European firm of Mannesman Bros, to establish a plant for the manufacture of seamless tubing, which it is thought will be successful. This is a very wealthy firm, and the plant contemplated would cost $1,500,000 and give employment to 5,000 people. Negotiations are also pending for the establishment of a galvanized wire works at a cost of $500,000. Whether these pan out successfully or not they go to show that Birmingham is attracting world wide attention as a coming steel center.

It seems from Washington dispatches that Gen. Lee will return to Cuba, which, taken in connection wit the views that he is known to hold in favor of the Cubans, may be significant. When speaking unofficially, he does not hesitate to condemn in vigorous language the Spanish methods of prosecuting the war, and there is little doubt that if his views were acted upon, the attitude of this Government would be very different from what it is and has been. The Cuban fighters for self government have about abandoned the hope of any action of intervention by this Government to secure them their independence, and it is now said that while they would welcome it, they don't want it in the shape of mediation to patch up a peace between them and Spain, a peace based on the recognition of Spanish sovereignty, and that they are resolved to fight it out to the bitter end rather than accept anything like that, or anything short of absolute independence. Their recent victories have inspired them with renewed hope and renewed self-confidence, and have put them in a much better position to claim belligerent rights. Their armies seem to be well officered, in good spirits and some of them well armed and clothed for future campaigns, which they propose to make lively for the Spaniards.

An Ear In Reserve.

A young lady arrived at Victoria station, London, from Dover, with a little over 20 minutes to catch a train at Cannon street.

In ordinary circumstances she ought to have done the journey very comfortably had she taken a hausom, but, having some luggage, she selected a "growler," and, as is often the case, the latter was behind a very poor horse.

Having told the jehu that she had to reach Cannon Street station in 20 minutes, off the vehicle started.

They had barely got 100 yards, however, before she put her head out of the window and requested the driver to whip the horse or otherwise she would miss the train. The cabby did so.

A little farther on she asked him to again administer the whip, as the cab was only just moving, and she added:

"Can't you hit him on the head or some tender part so as to wake him up a bit?"

The cabby stopped the vehicle and looking at the young lady exclaimed in a manner peculiar to cabbies:

"Well, miss, I've hit the hanimal all over his bloomin body except his left ear, and I'm savin that fer Ludgate 'ill."—Pearson's Weekly.

Education and Suicide.

The sad fact that suicide and education increase at an equal rate is now generally admitted. Civilization does not free humanity from grief, disgrace and disappointment, but wherever civilization is highest the struggle for existence is fiercest, life is most artificial, and there the most failures of the human race are met with. There was a time in Roman history when suicide was almost epidemic. It was when the great republic had reached its acme of civilization, when poetry, art and eloquence were triumphant. It is probable that the proportion of suicides due to mental derangements is increasing, but how rapidly can never be exactly determined. Morselli says that about one-third of all suicides may be attributed to insanity.—Robert N. Reeves in Popular Science Monthly.

MR. R. C. PHELPS, the leading pension attorney of Belfast, N. Y., writes: "I was discharged from the army on account of ill health, and suffered from heart trouble ever since. I frequently had fainting and smothering spells. My form was bent as a man of 80. I constantly wore an overcoat, even in summer, for fear of taking cold. I could not attend to my business. My rest was broken by severe pains about the heart and left shoulder. Three years ago I commenced using Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, notwithstanding I had used so much patent medicine and taken drugs from doctors for years without being helped. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure restored me to health. It is truly a wonderful medicine and it affords me much pleasure to recommend this remedy to everyone."

A CELLAR FIRE.

A New York Fireman's Graphic Account of a Thrilling Experience.

There is an article on "The Risks of a Fireman's Life" by Charles T. Hill in St. Nicholas. Mr. Hill says: While speaking of cellar fires, let me relate an incident that happened to some companies in the down town district at a fire of this description. It occurred in Barclay street, in the subcellar of a crockery and glass warehouse, and the straw used to pack the glassware. It sent forth a dense, stifling smoke and was an ugly fire to fight. I will relate it in the rather characteristic way in which it was told me by a fireman in one of the companies that were summoned to subdue it. The story gives an idea of what the firemen in the business part of a big city may have to face at any time.

"The station came in one night at 11:30. We rolled, and found the fire in Barclay street in a crockery warehouse. Burning straw, jute, excelsior and all that sort of stuff in the subcellar. Smoke? I never saw such smoke since I've been in the business. We went through the building and found the fire hadn't got above the cellar. We tried to get the line down the cellar stairs, but it was no use; no one could live on that stairway for a minute. The chief then divided us up, sent out a second (a second alarm), and we sailed in to drown it out; 27 engine got the rear; 7 engine the stairway, to keep it from coming up, and our company, 20, got the front. We pried open the iron cellar doors on the pavement, only to find that the elevator used to carry freight to the bottom had been run up to the top. Here were four inches of Georgia pine to cut through! And, phew, such work in such smoke!

"Well, we got through this, opened it up and—out it came! No flames, just smoke, and with force enough to suffocate a man in a second. We backed out to the gutter and got a little fresh air in our lungs and went at it again. We brought a 35 foot ladder over from the truck and lowered it through this opening and found we couldn't touch bottom! A 45 foot ladder was put down and only three rungs remained above the sidewalk. This showed that there was over 40 feet of cellar and subcellar! And down in this place we had to go with the line.

"Well, the sooner we got at it the sooner it was over. Shifting the line over the top rung of the ladder, so it wouldn't get caught, down we started. It was only 40 feet, but I can tell you it seemed like 340 before we got to the bottom. Of course, when we got there it wasn't so bad; the smoke lifted and gave us a corner in the cellar shaft where we could work, and we soon drove the fire away to the rear and out, but going down we got a dose of smoke we'll all remember to our last days."

The company working in the rear fared even worse than the other. They had to descend into a narrow court only 4 feet wide, about 25 feet long (the width of the building) and 40 feet deep, merely a shaft to give light and air to the cellar and subcellar. When the company in the front got to work, they drove the fire to the rear with such violence that this company was compelled to ascend rapidly to the street floor to save their lives.

The Mashonaland Doll.

No doubt the earliest manufactured toy of all was the doll. Little girls play with dolls everywhere, and have always done so. Indeed, among the Bechuanas and Basutos at the present moment married women carry dolls until they are supplanted by real children. There is for its possessor a curious individuality about a doll, altogether unaccountable to other people. How often may it be observed that a child will neglect the splendid new 5 shilling waxen beauty, with its gorgeous finery, and cling faithfully to the disreputable, noseless wreck of rags that has been its favorite hitherto. Something causes other children besides Helen's babies to dislike "buyed dollies," even to the preference for an article made of an old towel. This something, whatever it is, is doubtless a great comfort to the small girls of Mashonaland.

It is an innocent, armless sort of affair, without any such disfigurement as waist or shoulders might cause, no knee joints to get unfastened, and nothing at the end of its legs to cause expense at the shoemaker's. As regards dress, it is inexpensive, the whole suit of apparel consisting of a piece of string threaded through a hole humanely bored through the head.—Strand.

SPIDER CANCER.

An Annoying Blemish, Which Is Serious Only In Very Rare Cases.

One of the blemishes sometimes seen upon an otherwise perfect skin is what is known as spider cancer, though the name itself is most unfortunate and misleading, as there is nothing cancerous either in the nature or in the appearance of the thing in question.

Spider cancer is in reality a very simple thing. It is not dangerous except in very rare cases, and is caused by the dilation of the minute blood vessels at some point in the skin.

At any time after birth a small reddish point may be noticed upon the surface of the skin. Radiating from this center may be seen little hairlike lines, also red. The spot may remain stationary, or may increase in size as time goes on. It is usually not much elevated above the surrounding surface, though it is possible that a veritable tumor may form. The swelling and redness disappear under pressure, but immediately reappear when the pressure is removed.

Spider cancer may occur on any part of the body, but shows a predilection for the face, scalp and extremities. It is because of the involvement of the exposed regions that attention is attracted to the affection and anxiety about it increased.

As has been said, the course of spider cancer is shrouded in uncertainty. Though present at birth, it may disappear soon afterward. Sometimes it appears and disappears spontaneously; in other cases it rapidly increases in size. In rare cases it may be accompanied by various complications, such as ulceration and hemorrhage.

As a rule, spider cancer is unattended by any feeling of pain or uneasiness, though if the blood vessels are very much dilated, the continual hum from the murmur of the blood as it flows along may prove annoying. If it swells to large proportions, it may cause neuralgic pains from the pressure upon the nerves.

The treatment of spider cancer depends entirely upon the nature of the case. As there is danger of aggravating the trouble, it is advisable, unless the blemish is really unsightly, or there is some good reason for interference, to abstain from all treatment.

In case some treatment seems desirable, removal by electricity has come to be considered the only safe method. The electric needle is used to destroy the substance of the mark. The process is tedious and requires the care of an expert in the use of the instrument.

The resulting scar will be more or less conspicuous, according to the size of the blemish and the skill of the operator.—Youth's Companion.

COTTON MARKETS

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, September 20—The cotton market made a steady start at an advance of three to five points, early cables showing less decline at Liverpool than expected, and also an increased demand for spot cotton. Private cables also pointed to brosdening speculation, but after the first call was over liquidation set in on a somewhat heavy scale for these times and prices broke five to fourteen points from the highest. January contracts sold down from 6 65 to 6.59, leading the rest of the list. There were several intervals of rallies, but in the main the market showed a decidedly weak undertone, primarily due to big receipts and a disposition to ignore the yellow fever scare. In the afternoon the market was quite irregular and at times decidedly weak under heavy estimates for to-morrow's movement. The close was easy at a net decline of three to nine points.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

Chicago Policemen as Bankers.

The Harrison street police station does a banking business. It does not loan money or discount commercial paper, but it acts as a safe deposit company. The officers there receive deposits of money which they put in the safe. But they do not pay interest. Most of the customers, however, are well content to allow their money to remain on that condition.

The business is rapidly increasing, and it is seldom that there are not a few hundred dollars in the big safe.

The Harrison street police station is in the heart of the levee and the tenderloin district of Chicago. Very often men in search of a "good time" find themselves in that section. After having taken a few drinks they realize that it is risky to carry a big roll of money with them. So for secure keeping they will call at the police station and ask the sergeant in charge to take care of the money until they want it. The sergeant is obliging, and the money is locked up in the safe, and the next day the owner is richer by that much money.

No one has lost any money by leaving it with the police. Aside from the fact that the policemen are honest, such a thing as robbing a police station is unknown. The most daring burglar would hesitate before he would attempt it. The safe is good and strong and the police station has telephonic and telegraphic communication with all of the other stations, and should there be a hold up there the description of the robber would be known to every policeman in the city within a few hours.

The police good naturedly accept the responsibility imposed upon them, for which they receive no remuneration, although occasionally some one whose money they have saved will offer them cigars.—Chicago Times-Herald.

DEPARTMENT STORES.

The Prominent Part That Profuse Advertising Plays In Their Success.

Aside from departures in policy and innovations on a large scale, the originality of the department store is largely supplied by two departments, to some extent correlated. These are the advertising department and the window dressing department. One is the literature of the great store, the other its art. The shop windows are a great stimulus for the department whose goods are displayed in them. A good showing will often wonderfully increase the sale of the stock as well as attract customers to the store who are new to it. Frequently the head advertising man is the general manager of the store. Whether this is the case or not, he is a general supervisor of the establishment, with a complete knowledge of its ever changing detail. Every day he holds consultations with heads of departments to find out what particular lines of articles they want boomed, and about those articles he writes alluring statements for the shopping public to read, sometimes arranging for illustrations with them.

The amount of money spent for advertising is appalling when looked upon as an expense. One great store in Philadelphia spends on an average $1,000 every day in the year, and a good many spend $500 a day. The advertising receives probably more of the personal attention of the head of the house than any other department. The head of the firm which expends the great sum just mentioned personally suggests and frequently writes the leading lines in the daily announcement. The proprietor of a great store in Brooklyn does this invariably and thinks the time well spent which the work daily requires. The mail department tends to enlarge this expenditure, as the store reaches out to the utmost parts of the country, and the future will no doubt see an even greater development in the effort to secure mail customers in the small towns and in country places.—Samuel Hopkins Adams in Scribner's.

Electric Railroad Statistics.

Electric railways in Europe formed the subject of some interesting statistics recently embodied in a report sent to the United States government by Vice Consul J. F. Monaghan, at Chemnitz, Germany. According to these, the number of such railways was increased during the year 1895 from 70 to 111, while the total length was raised from about 435 to 560 miles, the number of cars from 1,288 to 1,747, and the horsepower from a little over 18,000 to a little over 25,000. Of all the European countries, Germany, according to Mr. Monaghan's figures, stood at the head, with about 250 miles to her credit, and an equipment of 857 cars and 7,164 horsepower. The other countries followed in the order given below:

	Miles.	Horsepower.	Cars.
France	80	4,400	233
England	80	4,248	143
Austria-Hungary	44	1,048	127
Switzerland	39	1,589	96
Italy	35	1,800	84
Spain	18	600	36
Belgium	16	1,120	45
Ireland	8	440	25
Russia	6½	540	22
Servia	6¼	300	11
Norway and Sweden	5	225	15
Bosnia	4	75	6
Roumania	4	140	13
Holland	2	320	14
Portugal	2	110	8

With this showing it is suggestive to compare the position of the United States, in which, according to the latest available figures, there were 19,138 miles of road, with a total of 84,971 cars. It is not without reason evidently that the United States is considered the home of the electric railroad. Canada comes next in order, with 450 miles of road and 1,150 cars.—Cassier's Magazine.

They Love Dante.

A magnificent upper chamber of the municipal palace (the Palazzo Vecchio) in Florence is set apart in memory of the great poet Dante. To it each of the 69 provinces and all of the larger cities and towns of united Italy have contributed a banner in his honor. There are over 300 of these banners in all, and the donors, in eager emulation, have tried to make each offering more beautiful than the others. The banners are of the differing colors of the provinces and bear their arms in exquisite embroidery or in paintings by the first living artists.

The fervor of the homage paid here to the immortal Italian poet stirs the heart of even the passing stranger. Whatever the jealousies or estrangement of these people, beside his tomb they are united.—Youth's Companion.

THEIR DEADLY FIRE.

THE AMERICAN RIFLEMEN AT THE BATTLE OF NEW ORLEANS.

A Description of the Engagement by General Jackson—A Letter From "Old Hickory"—How Packenham's Veterans Were Defeated by Frontiersmen.

In The Century William Hugh Roberts has an article entitled "Napoleon's Interest In the Battle of New Orleans." In this is quoted a hitherto unpublished letter written by General Jackson to Mr. James Monroe. A portion of the letter follows:

There was a very heavy fog on the river that morning, and the British had formed and were moving before I knew it. The disposition of the riflemen was very simple. They were told off in Nos. 1 and 2. No. 1 was to fire first, then step back and let No. 2 shoot while he reloaded. About 600 yards from the riflemen there was a great drainage canal running back from the Mississippi river to the swamp in the rear of the tilled land on which we were operating. Along this canal the British formed, under the fire of the few artillery pieces I had near enough to them to get their range. But the instant I saw them I said to Coffee, whom I directed to hurry to his line, which was to be first attacked: "By ——, we have got them! They are ours!" Coffee dashed forward, and, riding along his line, called out, "Don't shoot till you can see their belt buckles!" The British were formed in mass, well closed up, and about two companies front.

The British, thus formed, moved on at a quick step, without firing a shot, to within 100 yards of the kneeling riflemen, who were holding their fire till they could see the belt buckles of their enemies. The British advance was executed as though they had been on parade. They marched shoulder to shoulder, with the step of veterans, as they were. At 100 yards distance from our line the order was given: "Extend column front! Double quick, march! Charge!" With bayonets at the charge, they came on us at a run. I own it was an anxious moment. I well knew the charging column was made up of the picked troops of the British army. They had been trained by the duke himself, were commanded by his brother-in-law and had successfully held off the ablest of Napoleon's marshals in the Spanish campaign. My riflemen had never seen such an attack, nor had they ever before fought white men. The morning, too, was damp. Their powder might not burn well. "God help us!" I muttered, watching the rapidly advancing line. Seventy, 60, 50, finally 40 yards, were they from the silent kneeling riflemen. All of my men that I could see was their long rifles rested on the logs before them. They obeyed their orders well. Not a shot was fired until the redcoats were within 40 yards. I heard Coffee's voice as he reared out: "Now, men, aim for the center of the cross belts! Fire!" A second after the order a crackling, blazing flash ran all along our line. The smoke hung so heavily in the misty morning air that I could not see what had happened. I called Tom Overton and Abner Duncan of my staff, and we galloped toward Coffee's line. In a few seconds after the first fire there came another sharp, ringing volley. As I came within 150 yards of Coffee the smoke lifted enough for me to make out what was happening.

The British were falling back in a confused, disorderly mass, and the entire first ranks of their column were blown away. For 200 yards in our front the ground was covered with a mass of writhing, wounded, dead and dying redcoats. By the time the rifles were wiped the British line was reformed, and on it came again. This time they were led by General Pakenham in person, gallantly mounted and riding as though he was on parade. Just before he got within range of Coffee's line I heard a single rifle shot from a group of country carts we had been using, about 175 yards distant, and a moment thereafter I saw Pakenham reel and pitch out of his saddle. I have always believed he fell from the bullet of a freeman of color who was a famous rifle shot and came from the Atakappas region of Louisiana. The second advance was precisely like the first in its ending. In five volleys the 1,500 or more riflemen killed and wounded 2,117 British soldiers, two-thirds of them killed dead or mortally wounded. I did not know where General Pakenham was lying, or I should have sent to him or gone in person to offer any service in my power to render.

I was told he lived two hours after he was hit. His wound was directly through the liver and bowels. General Keene, I hear, was killed. They sent a flag to me, asking leave to gather up their wounded and bury their dead, which, of course, I granted. I was told by a wounded officer that the rank and file absolutely refused to make a third charge. "We have no chance with such shooting as these Americans do," they said.

The Power of Mathematics.

The man who is always ventilating a grievance was talking very loud to the bland and patient railway attache on his favorite theme, the greed of corporations.

"Look at the charges imposed by the railroads," he exclaimed. "Think of making a man pay $6 merely for going from Washington to New York. It's an unhallowed imposition on public rights."

"Look here," said the railway man, "do you know how far it is to New York? It's considerable over 200 miles."

"Of course. But it's time that counts, not distance. Your road only works a few hours getting a passenger there."

"It's time that I'm talking about. I don't want to inquire too closely into your private affairs, and for the sake of a calculation we'll assume that your time is worth $20 a day."

The discontented man coughed slightly and said, "That's near enough for all practical purposes."

"Now, allowing that the conditions were favorable, you wouldn't expect to walk that far over the highways, which are, of course, absolutely free, in less than seven days."

"No."

"Very well. That would make the trip cost you the equivalent of just $140, not counting what you would unavoidably spend for meals and lodging, nor the wear and tear on clothing and shoe leather. Subtract the $6.50 we charge you from $140, and it leaves a saving of $133.50, not counting extras. What do you want us to do? Write out checks in your favor and mail 'em to you?"—Washington Star.

How the Sun Affects Cattle.

Pat had recently secured a place on a farm.

One day at noon he was handed a glass of buttermilk, but expected something better. He tasted the liquid, set the glass down, and went into the house.

"Oi say, sorr," he said to his employer, "don't yez think Oi'd better be afther goin out and seein to the sthook!"

"Why?"

"Because Oi've me suspicions that somebody's left the cow standin in the sun and lettin her milk get sour."—Pick Me Up.

The goldenrod, which was advocated some time ago as the national flower of the United States, is emblematic of encouragement.

Satisfactorily Explained.

"Henry," she said, and there was what a novelist would call tears in her voice as she spoke, "I don't believe you love me any more."

"Maria," he said, "don't be foolish."

"There!" she exclaimed. "There's evidence of the truth of what I said. 'Don't be foolish!' Did you ever speak to me that way before we were married?"

"No, my dear; I did not," he admitted.

"Then," she said reproachfully, "my slightest wish was law; then you never sat around like a dummy, smoking a cigar and reading a paper when I was in the room; then you seemed anxious to please me and were ever on the watch to do some little favor for me."

"It is true," he admitted.

"You were never lazy then," she went on. "You were full of life and spirits; you were energetic."

"Quite true," he said.

"If you love me now as much as you did then," she persisted, "you would strive as valiantly as ever."

"My dear," he said in that calm, dispassionate tone that makes the average wife want to get a poker or a broom, "did you ever see a boy trying to get an apple or a cherry that was just a little out of his reach?"

"Certainly," she answered, but"—

"He keeps jumping and jumping until he gets it, doesn't he?"

"Of course."

"But does he continue jumping after he has got it?"

"Certainly not. There's no need of it."

"Well," he said as he turned to his paper again, "you're my cherry, and I don't see any reason why I should keep on jumping any more than the boy."

She didn't say anything, but she thought and thought, and the more she thought the more undecided she became as to whether she ought to be angry or not.—Chicago Post.

My Lady's Parasols.

Parasols have blossomed out into a variety and fresh importance in the realm of fashion which is really disheartening to all women except the few who are blessed with unlimited incomes or a mind above the frivolous things of life. Fashion decrees that the up to date woman must have from six to a dozen of these expensive trifles to harmonize respectively with her various costumes, but with three, well selected, she can meet all the requirements of fashionable dress. One should be of changeable or foulard silk, or ecru batiste, another of brocaded silk, and a third one of chiffon or lace to carry with thin gowns.

The chiffon parasol is a thing of frills and fluff, which is a puzzle to any one except the ingenious designer who fashioned it. In this class of parasols there are various kinds similarly elaborate made of net, lace and gauze, and the handles are of gold set with jewels, with rock crystal and enameled heads of tortoise shell or some choice wood.

Elegant brocaded and moire silks are used for covering, but there are all sorts of less expensive silk parasols in plain colors, plaids and stripes without limit to the variety. Ecru batiste parasols lined with a color and trimmed with narrow ecru lace are extremely pretty and useful as well as good style, and a lacquered wood handle is sure to be a desirable choice.—New York Sun.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

NOT AN ULTIMATUM.

MINISTER WOODFORD'S INTERVIEW WITH THE DUKE OF TETUAN

Simply a Statement of the Deep Interest Taken by the United States Government in the Settlement of the Cuban War —Regarded in Madrid as Bound to Cause a Great Sensation in Europe.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

PARIS, September 20.—A dispatch from San Sebastian to the Temps, of this city, says that in his interview yesterday with the Duke of Tetuan, the Spanish Minister of Foreign Affairs, the United States Minister to Spain, Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, did not present any claim for indemnity, but confined the interview to a moderate phrase in the statement of the great injuries commerce and industry had suffered in the United States through the prolongation of the Cuban war.

Gen. Woodford is said to have added that Secretary Sherman had desired him to declare to the Spanish government that it was evidently impossible for Spain to end the rebellion in a reasonable time, and, further, that if the war was continued Cuba would be devastated and of no utility to Spain or to the Cubans.

In conclusion, the United States minister is reported to have insisted courteously but firmly upon the necessity of terminating the war, declaring that if it was not terminated by the end of October the United States would feel justified in taking measures to secure the independence of Cuba.

The Duke of Tetuan, said, according to the dispatch to the Temps, while protesting against alleged American "pretensions," that he would reply officially to the United States minister when the Spanish court returns to Madrid.

MADRID, September 20.—In official circles here the greatest secrecy is maintained regarding the United States' ultimatum, which is looked upon as bound to cause a great sensation in Europe and to have the greatest consequences for Spain. While not intending it, it is believed that the action of the United States has greatly facilitated a solution of the ministerial crisis and that there will be a reorganization of the Conservatives under Gen. Azcarraga, the Premier, and Don Francisco Silvella, the leader of the Dissident Conservatives.

WASHINGTON, September 20.—It can be stated in reference to the Paris publication purporting to give the substance of Gen. Woodford's communication to the Duke of Tetuan yesterday, that there has been a misapprehension on several important points, notably in respect to an ultimatum and the setting of a time limit for the conclusion of the war. Instead of fixing the end of October next as the date for the termination of the war, that particular date was mentioned as the time when the Spanish Court would return to Madrid from San Sebastian, and when, consequently, it might be in order to return an answer to the latest representations of the United States Government through Mr. Woodford. It is declared at the State Department, that while Mr. Woodford did, according to the original idea of his instructions, set out the deep interest the United States had in witnessing a cessation of the deplorable conflict in Cuba, he did not deliver himself of an ultimatum, but simply made a statement of our deep interest in a settlement of the Cuban war as a reasonable explanation for intervening in any manner at this time. Mr. Woodford's telegram regarding his conference with the Duke of Tetuan is now before President McKinley.

LONDON, September 20.—A dispatch to the Standard from San Sebastian says: "The Government will take time to reply to United States Minister Woodford and will probably lay the case before the united Powers in the shape of an exhaustive exposition of the whole matter. But last year the Foreign Office ascertained that the sympathies of the Powers were not likely to go beyond platonic censure of the conduct of the United States. Much anxiety is noticeable in court and official circles.

DRY GOODS MARKET.

All Lines Shown Apparent Reaction from Previous Heavy Trading.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, September 20.—The dry goods market opened quietly to day, all lines of goods showing an apparent reaction from previous heavy trading. The demand for cotton goods is steady but of less ample proportions than recently, prints alone sustaining the market rates of two weeks ago. The demand for woollen goods on re-order is kept up, and at the advanced prices Jobbers report continued fair business on the whole, though the demand is somewhat scattered and unsatisfactory in its character. Staple cottons show no change. Print cloths sell slowly in all grades. Extras are still quoted at 2⅝c with a limited demand.

YELLOW FEVER SITUATION.

Eighteen New Cases at New Orleans But No Deaths—A Sensational Incident—Marked Improvement at Mobile—Only One New Case—No Deaths.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW ORLEANS, September 20.—The largest number of cases reported on any day since yellow fever first made its appearance in New Orleans, two weeks ago, was recorded on the books of the Board of Health this evening at six o'clock, although at that hour not a single case had proven fatal during the day. There were eighteen cases in all, including nine by Dr. Jos. Holt, all of the latter having been duly flagged and put under quarantine regulations.

The most sensational incident of the day was the announcement from Dr. Joseph Holt to the Board of Health that he had discovered nine cases among his practice, the first of which had come under his observation on Friday. Dr. Holt wrote a letter to President Olliphant, and entrusted it to the mail, and his letter reached the Board of Health office this morning. But fearing that the letter might not reach its destination in time, Dr. Holt sent a special messenger to the residence of Dr. Olliphant, of the board, at 12 o'clock last night, giving this information. The public, however, did not learn of the Holt case until shortly before noon to day. At the Board of Health office, when the Holt letter was opened there was first incredulity and then criticism of Dr. Holt, because he had adopted what the board considered an irregular way in which to make known his cases.

Immediately upon the receipt of this letter the machinery of the board was placed in motion and inspectors were sent to the various houses where Dr. Holt reported sickness to exist. The places were all disinfected and guards placed in front of them, but the board said it had very little hope of the effectiveness of these measures since all those who desired were given an opportunity to escape from the infected houses. One of the houses, where four of the patients are, is a fashionable boarding house. The first case to develop in this house was at 9 30 o'clock Saturday morning, and the other cases in the same place were noted Saturday afternoon. Those living in the house, of whom there were quite a number, knew of the existence of fever early Saturday morning, and therefore got out as fast as possible. Some of them moved their baggage on Saturday and others on Sunday, while it is said some of the boarders took a train and went to Atlanta. Shortly after the Board of Health was made acquainted with the contents of the letter of Dr. Holt, it held an executive conference and decided to immediately order its board of experts to visit the nine cases of Dr. Holt and decide whether or not they were suffering with yellow fever. The experts attempted to carry out the instructions of the board this afternoon, but when they proceeded to the first house Dr. Holt entered an objection and refused them permission to examine any of his patients, taking the position that he had properly diagnosed them, and that being an expert himself, there was no occasion for further investigation. After the experts made their report, the Board of Health went into executive session and discussed at length what was termed Dr. Holt's violation of a city ordinance which he himself had passed and which provides for the punishment by fine or imprisonment of any physician who might fail to report a positive or suspicious case of yellow fever in a period like the present. The question of the immediate prosecution of Dr. Holt came up and was considered, but the board finally decided to summon Dr. Holt to appear before them and explain to morrow his alleged negligence in the premises.

The result of the meeting to morrow will decide whether or not there shall be a prosecution of Dr. Holt in the courts Dr. Holt is one of the most eminent physicians in this city, was for several years president of the Board of Health, is a yellow fever expert and has an international reputation by reason of his invention of the quarantine system at the mouth of the river, which has been pronounced the finest in the world and copied by all the leading cities of this and other countries.

The brightest feature of the day was that there was no deaths. To-night most of the patients in the city were reported as doing well. Trouble in two cases was reported in the effort to enforce quarantine regulations. This morning, down town, one man managed to escape from the infected quarter and was chased and arrested, and after being arraigned in court and frightening everybody present, was sent back to his home. This evening a report was received that a man had appeared in front of the infected houses up town with a shot-gun, and had torn down the yellow fever flag and had taken possession of the premises. A squad of police was sent to the scene.

MOBILE, ALA., September 20—Sunday afternoon the hot spell was broken by a delightful rain, which served also to wash out the gutters and improve the city's sanitary condition. The temperature continued to fall during the night and this morning real Autumn weather was experienced. The spirits of the people rose rapidly. At noon the people were almost jubilant over the health report. Large crowds gathered in front of the newspaper offices to hear the reports for the twenty-four hours past. Saturday there were eleven new cases and yesterday as many more, so that the public expected at least a score of new cases to be announced to-day, but the Board of Health report was published as follows: One new case; no suspicious cases; no deaths. The new patient is J. E. Bolton, living in the infected district on Texas street.

A prominent member of the board said to-day that he regarded the measures taken by the authorities as highly effective in surrounding and stamping out the disease and that he expected the disease would be subdued and traffic and travel resumed before the middle of next month.

The total number of deaths has been three, one a man who had been on a spree, another of a bricklayer in such bad health that he had not been regular in his work for a month, and the third of a newsboy, up at all hours, exposed at every change of the weather. The other patients are all reported to-day as in good condition and the president of the Board of Health congratulates the people upon the improvement of the situation.

CAIRO, ILL., September 20.—There have been no further cases of yellow fever in this district. The two cases in the marine hospital pronounced yellow fever in a mild form by Dr. Guiteras and the hospital surgeon, are improving and one of them is convalescent. A strict quarantine is in force around the hospital. Experienced physicians of the epidemic of 1878 deny that these cases are yellow fever and pronounce it malarial fever, such as prevails every season among men working in swamps and along the river. The State Board of Health, with inspectors stationed at Cairo, has decided to quarantine against East Cairo and all Southern points.

NEW ORLEANS, September 20.—Miss May Chinn died at Biloxi this afternoon.

Dr. Holt reported to the Board of Health to-day that all his cases were traceable to Ocean Springs. One of them contracted the fever through a letter written by a woman in a room where her child was sick at that place. The letter apparently had not been disinfected. Only one of Dr. Holt's patients is dangerously ill.

Red Price, a seven-year old white boy of Griffin, Ga., died yesterday of hydrophobia. He was bitten by a mad dog in May.

LUETGERT MURDER TRIAL.

Evidence as to the Motive for the Alleged Murder to be Submitted To-day.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CHICAGO, September 20.—The closing direct evidence of the prosecution in the Luetgert case will be submitted to-morrow morning. If Judge Tuthill rules out the evidence of Frank Bialkes and Frank Odorofsky, as to the motive of the alleged murder, State's Attorney Deneen will call Mrs Johnson Miller to the stand to tell of threats she heard and a pursuit of Mrs. Luetgert she once witnessed by the man on trial, who was Mrs. Miller will say, armed with a revolver. But the State's attorney and his first assistant, W. M. McEwen, are of the opinion that Judge Tuthill will not rule out this evidence. This will detail Luetgert's relations with other women, notably Mary Siemmering, the servant girl to whose presence in the household Mrs. Luetgert strongly objected. The prosecution will try to establish the fact that it was a desire to marry Mary Siemmering, or some one of the other women with whom he was infatuated, that led Luetgert to murder his wife.

Dr. Rudolph Oppenheim, of West Hemmond, Ill., is to be called as an expert witness by the defence. He has expressed the opinion that the bones exhibited by the prosecution were procured and placed in the vat by enemies of Luetgert for the purpose of convicting him. Half a dozen other experts will also be called, among them Dr. Sanderson Christison, the expert on criminology. It was also stated to-day that an effort would be made to prove an alibi for Luetgert. The defence will require two weeks to present their case and at least a week will be consumed in the arguments of counsel.

State's Attorney Deenen to-day asked the county board to appropriate $3 500 more to help him carry on the trial. Expert witnesses, Mr. Deneen finds, will not work for love or glory, and besides he claims there are several persons he desires to bring here from New York to testify for the State. Just who these new witnesses are the State's attorney declines to reveal now, his first purpose being to get the money to pay the expenses.

FIRE IN A COAL MINE.

Narrow Escape of a Large Number of Workmen—Five Believed to Have Perished.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW ORLEANS, September 20.—A special from Birmingham, Ala., to the Picayune, says: About two hours after the men went to work in mine No. 3, of the Bessemer Land and Improvement Company's coal mine at Belle Ellen, near Blocton, Bibb county, this morning, fire was discovered far down in the main slope. About 100 men are employed in the mine, and an alarm was at once given. A panic followed among the workers and in the little town of Belle Ellen. Hundreds of men, women and children gathered at the main entrance of the smoking mine while rescue parties were at once formed to relieve the miners. More than fifty were gotten out from the various entrances without harm. Others were overcome by smoke and fell by the wayside. These the brave searchers found and dragged out while those waiting at the entrance restored life to their unconscious friends. A scene of wildest excitement prevailed at the mine's mouth. Women and children were screaming and shouting for help and a fire brigade was at work endeavoring to overcome the flames. Five men who were working about the slope beyond where the fire originated could not be reached and it is regarded as certain that they are dead

RAILWAY COMMISSIONERS.

THE GOVERNOR FULLY DECIDED TO OUST THE TWO WILSONS.

But He Wants His Authority to be Settled by the Courts—The Whitsett Controversy—Two Propositions to Lease the Penitentiary Convicts Will be Considered by the Board of Directors.

[Special Star Correspondence.]

RALEIGH, N. C., September 20.

Editor Bailey, of the Biblical Recorder, has received a letter from Dr. Whitsett, the president of the Louisville Theological Seminary, in which he states that he will not yield his position in any event until his term expires, which is a year distant. The Whitsett controversy is being more agitated than ever. The statement of the president of the seminary at Wilmington has utterly failed to stem the agitation. It will be a vital issue at the Southern Baptist Convention, which meets in Norfolk. Editor Bailey says the sentiment in this State is overwhelmingly against Dr. Whitsett.

A friend of the Governor states that while he is fully decided to oust the two Wilsons as Railway Commissioners he will hardly render his decision until October. He realizes that the question of his having authority to take the step must be settled by the Courts. The Governor desires that the matter come up at the October term of Wake Superior Court, in order that a decision may be had as early as possible.

Since Norfolk has established quarantine many persons have been forced to the necessity of securing certificates of health

Dr. John Hay Williams, the Surgeon General of the North Carolina State Guard, writes the Governor as follows: "If it meets with your approbation, I should be pleased to telegraph U. S. Marine Surgeon General Wyman, offering the mountain portion of Western North Carolina as a refuge for the refugees from the fever-stricken districts."

The Governor has turned Dr. Williams' letter over to the State Board of Health. Whatever the Board advises the Governor will do.

Dick Morse, the gospel wagon speaker, will shake the dust of Raleigh from his feet this afternoon. Morse goes from here to Goldsboro. His next point is Kinston, and from there he goes to Newbern. Morse hasn't had much success here. His attacks on local ministers do not help his cause in the least.

Col. A. B. Andrews and party are now on their return trip from California.

[Special Star Telegram.]

The directors of the penitentiary will meet to-morrow. Chairman Dockery, who is here, says two propositions have been made for taking convicts off the hands of the State and paying all expenses of conducting the prison. One proposition comes from John H. Winder, who represents a syndicate. They propose to free the State from all expense of management of the institution and work the convicts as they see fit under the direction of the superintendent.

Three prisoners made their escape from the jail at Christiansburg, Va., Saturday night. One of them is a negro charged with criminal assault on a white women. The other two are white, one of them under sentences of eighteen years imprisonment for murder, and the other serving a sentence for petty larceny.

OWNERS OF BUILDINGS IN AND AROUND Wilmington will find it to their interest to see W. C. Mitchell about their leaking roofs before it is too late to remedy same. While you sleep rust is playing havoc with your Tin and Iron Roofs.

The ordinary paints that are used for such work crack from the heat and peel off, hence, the water finds its way to the tin and soon makes your roof a sieve, from which your tenants complain. I am here in the interest of such roofs with a that stops all leaks and makes your roof fire and water proof. This Paint is a combination that expands to heat and shrinks as it cools. It will not crack, scale or peel off, and is durable from eight to ten years without extra coating, and for than any other Paint known to the painting fraternity. My son, who superintends the work, has twenty years' experience at the business that he learned from his Old Dad, who served five years under an Englishman to learn the Art of Painting.
